SRI RAMAKRISHNA SEVASHRAMA : A bird's eyeview

Sri Ramakrishna Sevashrama was started by Revered Swami Japanandaji who came to Pavagada Taluk in Tumkur District, Karnataka, as a young monk in 1992 on a drought relief project. Pavagada, the perennially water-starved, neglected and backward region, was going through one of the worst droughts. Japanandaji was aghast to see that most of the population was deprived of clean drinking water, basic medical facilities, was socially so backward, and had nobody to look up to. Leprosy and tuberculosis played havoc in the society. As a follower of Swami Vivekananda whose heart bled for the poor and the ignorant, Japanandaji was moved by the plight of the people and started his humanitarian mission at the grassroots level. After years of toil, with very little monetary or human resources, he built the Swami Vivekananda Integrated Rural Health Centre (SVIRHC) with its own hospital, to provide superior medical care to the poor people. Swamiji's leprosy eradication project proved to be a great success, through which 3800+ patients have been identified and treated so far. The Tuberculosis (TB) control project initiated in 1996 received state and national recognition, because of the various innovative, insightful approaches, and till date over 13500 patients have been identified and given free treatment. Weekly rations are provided to poor patients recovering from TB patients, and disabled people.

The 50-beds, fully equipped hospital of SVIRHC was dedicated in 1998. Then Revered Swamiji turned his attention to the mission of blindness eradication and vision care for the masses. The modern Sri Sharadadevi Eye Hospital and Research Centre was opened in 2000, providing best of the facilities at zero cost to thousands. It keeps attracting people from far off districts with its impeccable quality and 'service' in the true sense. Till date over 30,000 cataract operations and other eye-related procedures have been performed here.

Apart from these and many other medical projects that have reached lakhs of individuals, the Sevashrama under the spirited leadership of Swami Japanandaji has been conducting drought relief projects every year under which fodder is distributed free to farmers, saving the lives of numerous heads of cattle, as well as their owners. The tireless swami has not limited himself to Pavagada. Whenever any natural calamity strikes he would be at the forefront serving the people. The Gujarat earthquake, Tamil Nadu tsunami and cyclone, Kerala floods, Odisha floods and recent North Karnataka floods have been some examples. Over the years Rev. Swamiji has built a team of dedicated volunteers.

With the liberal financial backing by Infosys Foundation, Swami Japanandaji has taken up the installation of pure drinking water units to benefit large gatherings, the student community, and pilgrims, in Pavagada and Tumkur; drinking water is regularly supplied to several pockets of remote areas.

In 2014, the 'Sri Sharadadevi Institute of Visual Management & Rehabilitation' was opened which is running a Dasoha (Education + Training + Food) programme for visually challenged children. Under the "Vatsalya Sudha", a project for nutritious food supplement for children, sponsored by Infosys Foundation, every day about 120 poor children are provided milk and healthy snacks. The youngsters are also fed noble thoughts on our rich culture and heritage, and introduced to Swami Vivekananda's thoughts and patriotism.
